ICE PALACE THE PROJECT

Messrs. Hutchins and Towers Want to Build One.

NEAR CONVENTION HALL

Skating Rink to Be One of the Features of the Place—Mrs. Briggs Must Remove the Lattice Work From Her Pharmacy School—No More Fast Bicycle Riding.

Lee Hutchins and David Towers were before the Commissioners several hours yesterday seeking permission to erect a $60,000 ice palace and skating rink on the southeast corner of the square, upon which are situated the Convention Hall, with the Northern Liberty Market, and the National Guard Armory, between Fourth and Fifth and K and L streets northwest. Mr. Hutchins is a son of Mr. Stilson Hutchins, who is a large stockholder in Convention Hall and the market.

In order to build the ice palace a big steam engine must be put up, and this requires a permit. The application for a permit is opposed by Mr. Gatti, who lives near.

Building Inspector Brady was called in and the ground was gone carefully over. The laws were considered and the location of the ice palace was decided upon.

Mr. Hutchins urged the public importance of the enterprise, and the work it would give to the unemployed. The Commissioners could not reach a decision.

A division was reached in the case of Mrs. E. E. Briggs, who has a pharmacy school at No. 574 B street southeast. The neighbors object to the signs for her school, and to a lattice work porch. Both sides were heard at length yesterday. The Commissioners wrote Mrs. Briggs that the lattice work on her porch must come down. It is in violation of the city ordinance.

Thos. D. Ingram, of the Hotel Kensington, was informed that in the new police regulations fast bicycle riding will be forbidden. The police will have a list of names in hand, and the Commissioners spent some time last night in revising them.

Ben C. McQuay, of No. 129 Maryland avenue, has received his reply regarding the use of Maryland avenue by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as a car yard. The railroad company has agreed to the use of the street, and a decision rendered some time ago. In accordance with it, Mr. McQuay is told that the railroad company is not to fence its track with a right to make freight yards of the streets. His remedy, however, is by the courts.

A firm of New York contractors were informed that there is no appropriation now available for furnishing the small-pox hospital.

Major F. C. DuBois was written that complete plans for the sewerage of Crescent street, Meridian Hill, cannot be presented until the games of the winter season are definitely determined.

PERMITS TO RELAY TRACKS.

Acting Secretary of the Navy McAdoo has been granted a permit to relay the track on the M street crossing. The track is to be laid on the right side of the street, and the existing grade of the street is not to be changed.

Mr. T. W. Birney called on Commissioner Ross in the afternoon and spent half an hour discussing legal points in connection with extending the city limits with tax penalties and advertising costs. Senator Vest made a short call on Commissioner Powell yesterday morning. They probably discussed informally legislation which the Commissioners will ask Congress to consider.

John S. Jennings was appointed an additional private on the police force, without pay, to serve in connection with the stockkeeper at the Canal street property yard.

John M. Werner was appointed a laborer at the municipal lodging house at $8 a month.

William Warren, of No. 905 North Carolina avenue southeast, asked recently for a refund of his deposit for a sewer on Ninth street between K and L, and on K street between Eighth and Ninth. A reply sent him yesterday says that a permit sewer having been constructed, the law does not provide for the return of the deposit.

A building permit was issued yesterday to Charles Fleishman for a two story and basement brick dwelling at No. 824 Third street southeast, to cost $3,000.

EPWORTH LEAGUE NOTES.

Events of Interest That Will Soon Transpire.

The Inter-League visitation among the local chapters of the Epworth League, which has proven such a success, will terminate Sunday evening with Ryland and Wesley M. E. Churches receiving the delegates.

The leaders' meeting, which has been arranged for each week by the District first vice president, Mr. J. S. Barker, will meet at Metropolitan M. E. Church, Saturday evening, at 7 o'clock. The regular League topic for the following evening service will be discussed.

A new chapter has been organized at St. Paul's M. E. Church, with Mr. B. L. Buell, president; Mrs. W. F. Roe, first vice president; Mrs. M. N. Richardson, second vice president; Dr. Ada R. Thomas, third vice president; Mrs. Hurst, fourth vice president; Miss Duvall, secretary, and Mr. M. N. Richardson, treasurer.

The District Board of Control will meet at Foundry M. E. Church, December 4. This will be the last official meeting of the present officers, whose terms expire with the induction of the new officers, which will take place early in January.

CLEVELAND WELL GUARDED.

Extraordinary Precautions in and About the White House.

"Cleveland must be protected from cranks," said his private secretary, Mr. Thier, early in the present administration, and to this end the police patrol of the grounds of the Executive Mansion was doubled, and unusual precautions were taken. Yesterday, because of the wintry weather, the sentries were replaced by a slight change has been made in their location over that of last season.

The White House is the most thoroughly guarded building in the city. Watchmen are on duty at all hours and the grounds are perfectly patrolled by trusted men. On the outside watches never less than six policemen are on duty. There is direct telephonic and telegraphic communication between the White House, Fort Myer, Washington barracks, and the Marine barracks.

For the Locked-Out Men.

A grand testimonial benefit will be given the locked out Anacostia car drivers this afternoon and night at Odd Fellows' Hall, Eighth street southeast, by the Roberts Modern Miracle Company, assisted by members of the Marine Band. Admission 25 cents and 35 cents for reserved seats. Friends of organized labor are asked to assist in making the affair a grand financial success.

BOTH PARTIES AGGRIEVED

Marketmen and Commission Merchants Make Protest.

OBJECT TO BEING REMOVED

Former Say They Have Occupied Present Space for a Century—Merchants Declare That Clearing of Sidewalks, as Ordered, Will Completely Break Up Their Business.

Two delegations called on the Commissioners together at noon. One was the produce dealers who occupy curbside and sidewalk stands at Center Market; about forty in number, the other was made up of some sixty leading commission merchants from Louisiana avenue. All came to protest against being refused further use of public space which they have considered at their service because of long-continued custom.

The market men are relieved from the immediate force of the order unless they by a temporary injunction in the case before Judge Bingham, but the commission men are daily subject to arrest and the police are to be held responsible unless arrests are made. Accordingly the commission men were urgent for an immediate suspension of the order which will practically be granted.

CAME TOGETHER BY MISTAKE.

The arrival of the two delegations at the same time was the result of a misunderstanding. When the market men failed to appear on November 19, as they had arranged with the Commissioners, they made an appointment at a meeting of their own to be held yesterday instead. They failed, however, to make arrangements with the Commissioners to that effect. There was only one error at Secretary Tamm's office, whether they would be heard and whether representative Wellington of Cumberland, Md., would be present, as expected. The reply was that nothing was known of a hearing for the marketmen, no hour had been set and no meeting was expected.

About 11 a. m. Capt. J. S. Miller and Mr. J. S. Baum came from the Louisiana avenue merchants, against whom the police moved yesterday in response to the letter addressed to Mayor Moore, by the Commissioners, three days ago. They were assigned for an audience at noon.

A few minutes after the hour the marketmen, headed by representative Meredith of Alexandria, and their committee, according to the programme they had arranged with themselves, marched into the board room by virtue of a few minutes in advance of the commission merchants.

Mr. Meredith briefly introduced his constituents as farmers and dealers who for years have been in the market, and given residents here the advantage of fresh country produce.

Mr. Wells A. Sherman, of Vienna, Va., read a paper urging the removal of the market and their fathers had used the space from which they were about to be excluded and under act of Congress had acquired a prescriptive right to it.

He pointed out that B street is so wide that four teams and two electric cars can pass along it without even when market wagons are backed up against the curb on both sides. But produce dealers who have no curbside stop out in the middle of the street, sometimes within the horse and block the whole street. If the Commissioners want to open the street they only need to make this class of dealers move on.

The men who have used the street will then be as wide as Seventh or Ninth streets without disturbing wagons at the side.

ONLY ENFORCING THE LAW.

Col. Truesell replied that the farmers themselves had asked for the establishment of the wholesale market and the whole-scale dealer asked that the men on the street about Center Market be moved to the new market. The Commissioners were simply enforcing the law in complying with the request.

Mr. Arthur Stuble of Sandy Springs, Md., representing hay producers, complained that they were charged 15 cents a load in addition to the fee for weighing if the wagons stood at the haymarket fifteen minutes after being weighed.

Commissioner Truesell said they were informed this charge had been made also by the Washington Market Company when in control of the haymarket, but no such charge had been made in many years.

Col. Truesell then told the delegation if they would get Congress to appropriate money to enlarge the market, no charge would be made there for weighing hay or anything else, but until then the plans made must be carried out.

The market place had been much improved, a considerable expense and a roof would be provided as soon as possible.

Mr. Bryan of Annapolis, said it was an admirable hardship to be driven out into the rain and snow. If shelter were provided he was willing to go anywhere the Commissioners desired. He cared nothing for Center Market.

Major Powell said not half the dealers could get under the Center Market shed.

Mr. Bryan replied that all who came on stormy days found shelter there. To exclude them would cut off the market on such days.

Mr. Meredith reminded the Commissioners that retail men deserved as much consideration as wholesale.

Col. Ross said the board would consider the matter carefully and would receive any papers submitted. Mr. Sherman left the paper from which he read his argument.

The Commissioners have never shown any purpose to recede from their order to clear B street.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS' PROTEST.

Capt. J. S. Miller spoke for the commission merchants. He said they had used the walk on Louisiana avenue for many years. The sidewalk was forty-four feet wide and there was room left for passers. The place was more a market thoroughfare than an ordinary street.

The goods they handled were perishable and it would be impossible to do business if they were required to keep within their stores. He had been in the business twenty-four years, but if the order was enforced he would have to try something else.

Mr. J. F. Baum said he had been here in business twenty-three years. He remembered the time when such goods as they handled were all brought from the markets of Baltimore, and were necessarily less fresh when sold here than they ought to be. The gentlemen present and represented by the market men, a market furnishing goods sold direct from farmers from all the States, including fruits from California. This produce was presented fresh and good by them.

The Commissioners had just heard the farmers who came from the country, but these gentlemen, deserving of consideration as they were, used only 10 per cent. of the country produce used here; the commission merchants now before them sold the other 90 per cent. The Commissioners ought to consider the protest the people would raise if this market were cut off, as it must be, if the order were enforced.

HAVE TO TAKE WHAT COMES.

He made the point, that, as commission men, they were bound to control the quantity of goods they received. They must take what shippers sent, and being overcrowded, must use the walk.

Mr. W. S. Hoge called attention to the fact that if they were obliged to carry goods into their stores within an hour from its arrival, the sidewalk would be worse blocked than now, because there would be a procession of trucks passing all the time.

Col. Ross, for the board, said they would be glad to look into the matter and would visit the place to see what was being done.

Capt. Miller then resumed to say that Thanksgiving was coming near, and it would be especially hard to enforce the order in the accompanying rush of business. They ought at least to be given an opportunity to notify the shippers that they could not receive goods. He hoped the order would be suspended pending investigation.

Col. Truesell said it must be remembered that the Commissioners did not
